1. The People's Volunteer Army Command is at Tsishok'ou (下沙口) on the highway 55 li north of Antung and 15 li southeast of K'uant'ien (124-46, 40-44).¹
2. The Supply and Service Command of the Volunteer Army Command in North Korea has requested the Supply and Service Command of the Chinese Communist Army Supreme Command to move automotive repair shops into North Korea to repair heavily damaged vehicles. Seriously damaged vehicles had previously been returned to China because repair teams in Korea were able to make only minor repairs.
3. In mid-May 1951 six repair shops were formed in Manchuria and North China and moved into Korea. These shops can make major repairs on 500 vehicles and minor repairs on 750 others per month. It is estimated that 107 man-hours are required to overhaul an engine and 40 man-hours to make a new truck body.
